

What does it mean to be a Pacer?

By: Enkhtushig Namkhai

What do you imagine when you hear of the word Pacer? Freedom? Pride? Unity? Or does the people that make Grant High School put the meaning into the word Pacer? The word, Pacer, if defined, is a pacesetter, or a person or thing that unifies the whole group together so that everyone goes at the same speed as others. A pacesetter is someone that never leaves anyone behind, and tries their best to make sure everyone is on the same track.

Being a pacer means that we all work together to make a change to better our school and help one another if we need assistance. However, most of all, being a Pacer means being who you are. A place where nobody has to pretend to be someone that they are not. Everyone in this school makes up the word "Pacer" because without the people, the word can not stand alone, in other words, the word "pacer" is just a word and doesn't have any value to it since there is no one to put value into the word.

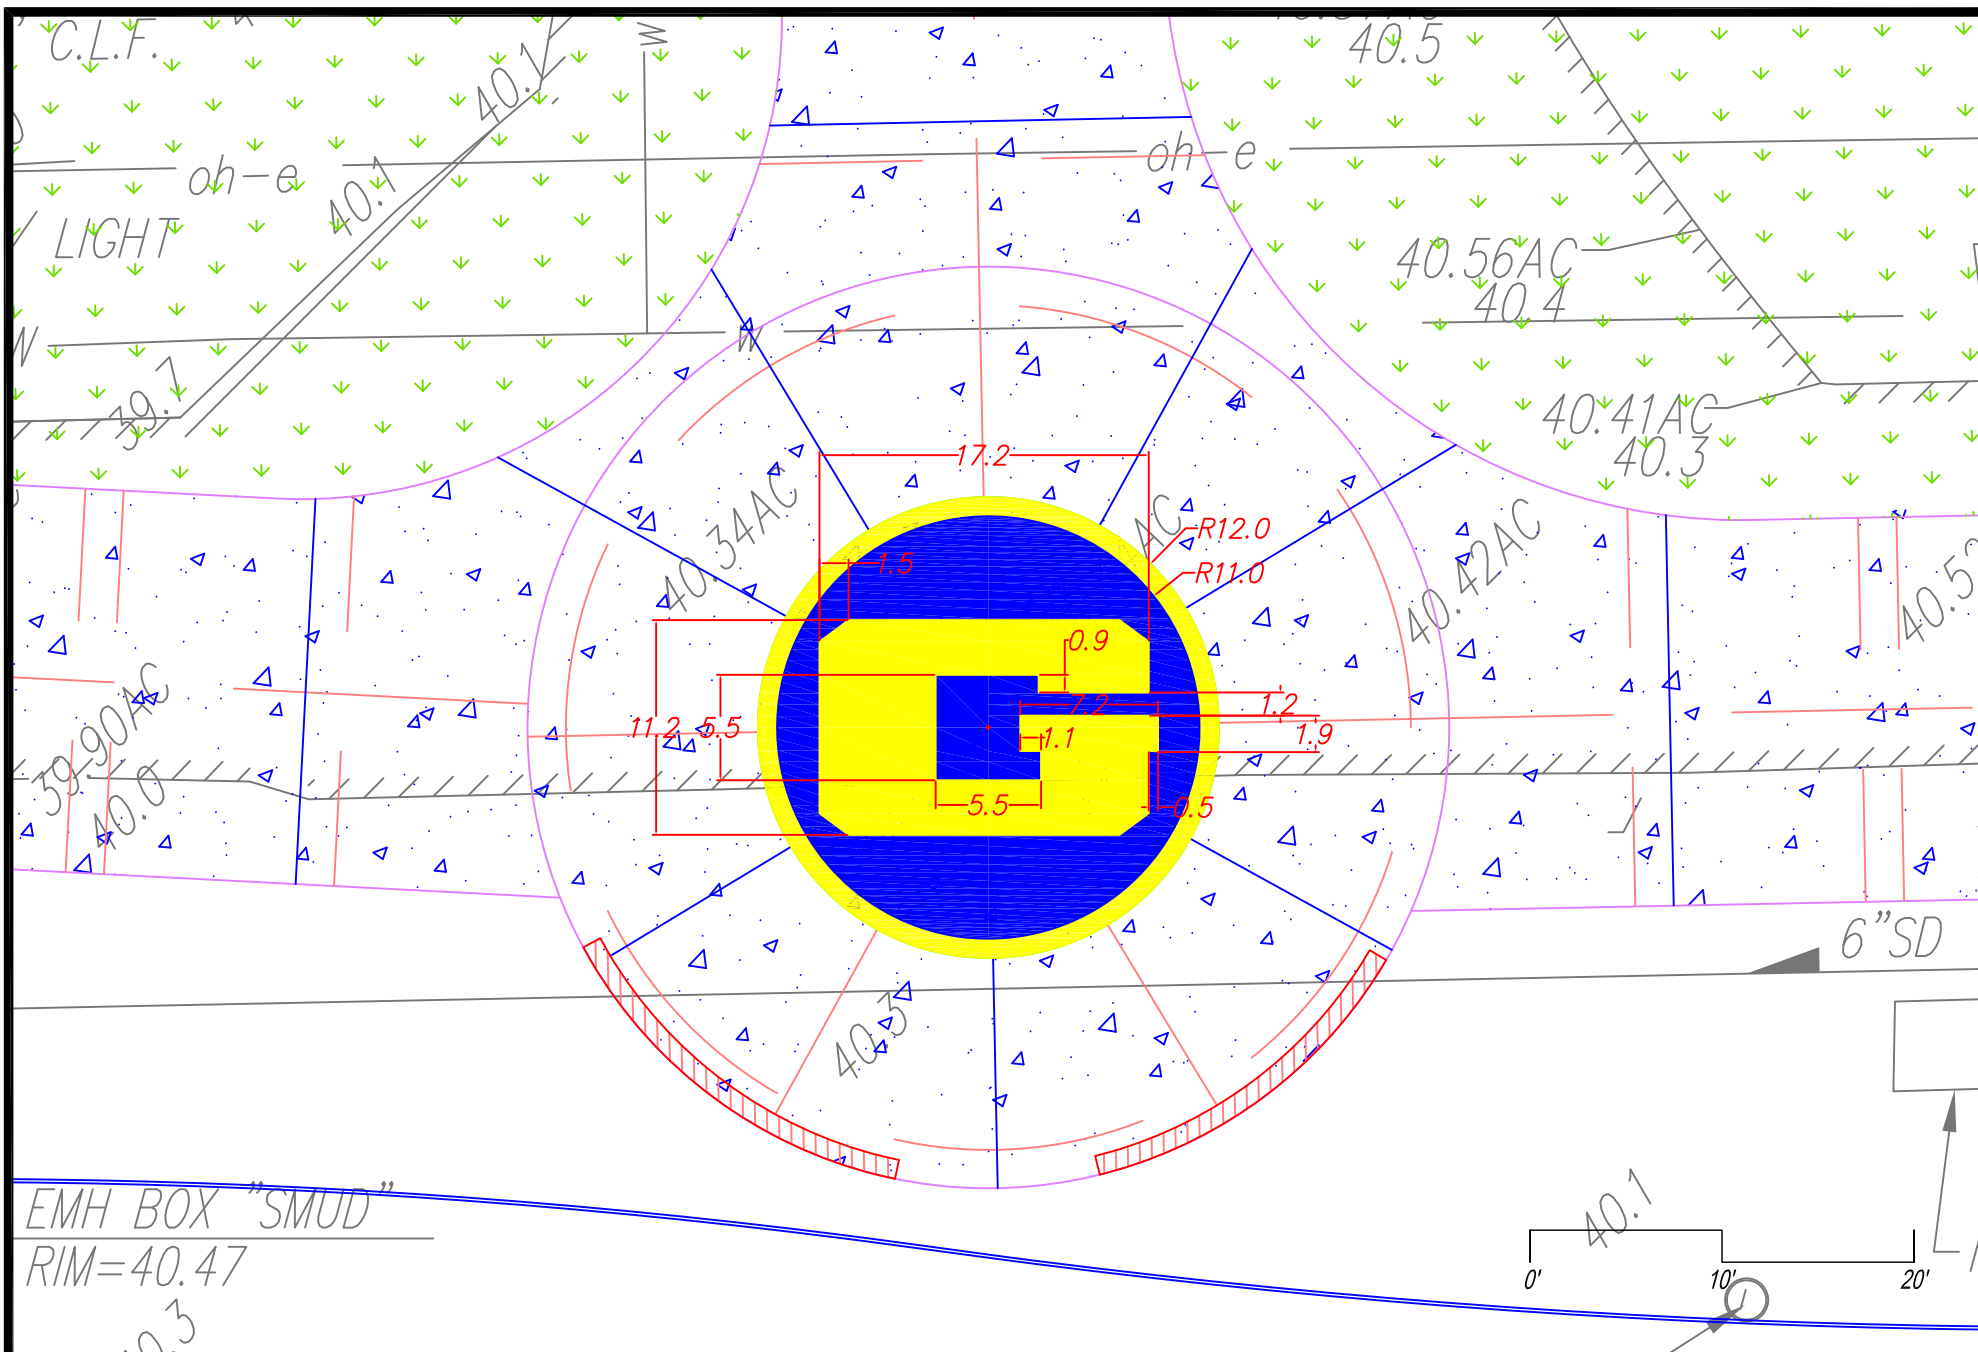

Being a pacer means that we have pride in our school and take pride in what others accomplish. Cheering each other on, representing our school, cherishing what we have, and trying to make our school better. Whether it be painting our pacer logo on a concrete that is going to be demolished after two weeks, we do our best to make it perfect, because we all want our school that we went to for four years to be better. Painting this logo might not seem like a big deal to well funded schools, it might not be the prettiest piece of art, however, for a pacer, this is a symbolic movement and has a very personal meaning to all of us. Being a pacer means standing up for our school and having a burning feeling deep inside our hearts when others denounce our school. We take pride in our school even though it might not seem like it is the best to other people, because we know that by being a pacer we have learned a lot of things that we otherwise would have not known.

We have met new people, and experienced the unimaginable during these four years.

Being a pacer means being a part of a big family. Even though we might not know every single person in our big family, just being a pacer connects all of us together. We have a common ground because we have experienced the same things together. We have walked through the same path, through the same struggles, we have faced the same problems and difficulties, and that's what makes us pacers.
